- A high Soviet command post, probably a division command, is located in the building of the former Hungarian corps command at Székesfehérvár. A guard armed with a machine pistolis stationed at the door day and might.
- 2. Active transport traffic has been going on since the beginning of summer at the main railway station and freight station. Small trains of five or six cars, occupied by Soviet officers, are often seen at the main railway station; some of the cars are fitted out as offices. Most of the officers wear lilac-red shoulder boards. Freight trains of from 28 to 32 cars are also seen passing through; each train has two or three passenger cars occupied by the Soviet escort personnel. The soldiers mostly wear black shoulder boards bordered with red. Many trains are loaded at Székesfehervár, especially with 152 mm. guns. The full emlisted personnel of the units does not go along. There were days in July when three or four such trains passed the Székesfehervár freight station.
- 3. The city is fast becoming empty. The Soviet troops are leaving for summer maneuvers. Part of them have gone to Rajmasker, where regular firing practice is held in battalion and artillery abteiling strength. The Soviet units remaining in Székesfehervár in the latter part of July included the following: about 20 Soviet officers at the Hotel Arpád (many more were formerly quartered here); a guard company of 90 to 95 men with black shoulder boards at the Cavalry barracks; a guard unit of 45 to 50 men in the police building; a guard company of 100 to 110 men in the former 69 Barracks.
- 4. There is a large Soviet ammunition magazine in the Seregélyes forest. The entire surrounding area is closed to civilian travel. The guard is furnished by the Székesfehérvér command. Several hundred carloads of various kinds of ammunition are loaded here.
